

THE 5TH INTERNATIONAL CONFERENCE ON ENTERPRISE SYSTEMS 2017 (ES2017)

22-24 SEPTEMBER 2017, BEIJING, CHINA

Special Session on “Industrial IoT and Smart City” Call for Papers

Based on advanced communication technologies, as drivers of innovation in health, safety, environment and business, Industrial IoT and Smart City plays a critical role in academic research and practice. By sensing, analyzing, and integrating the key information of the city operation systems, big data techniques provide the vehicle for delivery of smart city services and solutions. In order to create more intelligent living environments, the study about technology platforms, spatial planning, network infrastructure, services, applications, and more novel theories are desirable.

Papers may cover fundamental theories for smart cities, related to novel applications, rising information technologies, non-traditional approaches and other innovations. Topics to be addressed might include, but are not limited to the following :

- Smart applications based on advanced technologies
- Big data platform
- Innovation based on Internet of Things
- Industrial Internet of Things
- Internet-related infrastructures and services
- Techniques of digital and information integrated
- Intelligent and connected vehicles
